1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a formal communication, and it is written in a very formal style. The President is addressing the Congress, and he is discussing the state of the Union. He is talking about the economy, the military, and the foreign relations of the United States. He is also talking about the issue of slavery, which was a very important issue at that time. The President is saying that he is proud of the progress that the United States has made, but he is also saying that there are still many problems that need to be solved. He is asking the Congress to help him solve these problems.
